

There is an unexpected fount for colonization in this new land.

"While Villegas reached Nahuel Huapi, Colonel Winter, a veteran who is said to have been covered with laurels, crept along the spurs of the mountains, along the Limay, a river that has enraptured all explorers who have crossed its icy waters, while the Nenquen Division descended from the Andine slopes to the west of Nahuel-Huapi. Thus the three divisions swept the strategic triangle whose base is the Andes, the Limay (Lech river) the South side, and the Nenquen (swift flowing) the North, a triangle teeming with vigorous nature, which was the birth place and refuge of both the Pampa and Araucanian Indians.

"Victory has crowned Villegas' veterans. The Indians, the scourge of Castilian civilization, have disappeared from Argentine territory, like grains of sand before the Pampero. The richest part of the South of the Republic is the Land of Apples, like the Elysian Fields of Barbary where the marauders rested after their terrible raids. This enchanting spot is now ours.

"Nahuel-Huapi means 'Tiger Island.' Its geographical position is 41° 30' S. L., 73° 30' W. from Paris; 537 metres over sea level. The Limay rushes from the lake. Father Mascardi first settled there in 1890, and the savages murdered him. Other priests went and met the same fate. In 1723 a mission was founded there, and an image of the Virgin was put in the church. The Araucanian diviners said the 'Spanish Lady' brought them mistotune; and the tribes burned the settlement, destroyed the church, killed the priests, and pitched the image into the lake, rolled up in a cow's hide. Some remains of the church and settlement are still visible. The savages make cider, ('palen') from the apples and hold frightful orgies.

"Chilian priests first discovered Nahuel-Huapi, and the maps of the 18th century marked the spot as 'New Chile.' This is one of the reasons why Chile in 1872 claimed the land of giants, trees and luscious strawberries. But Argentine soldiers have occupied it now, and Chile is silent. Those who protested with rolling drums, in 1873, at our making laws for the Atlantic coast, are silent when they hear the battle of Argentine muskets rattle as they are grounded on the Andine snow. We call on the Argentine people to salute Villegas and his veteran legions at Nahuel-Huapi, whose waters now reflect the Flag of May."

THE TUNISIAN QUESTION

Although the French Tunisian question is of no local importance, it will nevertheless always interest our readers, as the international policy of France in Africa must necessarily affect the many British interests in the Mediterranean. It has been said that the nation that rules the waves of the Mediterranean will sway the sceptre of the world. Thus one sees Russia advancing towards Constantinople and pushed by Germany towards the East. Austria through Germany also acquires a large sea-board on the Adriatic; Italy has great interests involved, first through her national position, and secondly through the unceasing hegira of her sons towards the coast of Africa; in the Plate we wonder at Italian immigration being so strong; Argentina would indeed be prosperous if they relied on the number of Italians that yearly flow into Tunis, Tripoli and all the African coast; these Italian interests apparently clash with the views of France on Tunis. It is well-known that France merely considers Tunis as a mere appendage to her possessions in Algeria; France in this question, it is well-known, has sounded the views of all European Cabinets with success, if we except Rome.

Furthermore, when the Italian Minister in Paris sounded the French Government on the question, he received a rather stiff answer, which pointed to the annexation of Tunis. It is not to be wondered, then, that Italian intrigues are suspected the moment the Arab tribes on the Algerian frontiers rise and molest that French possession, which has always been a sore point, since the Empire and former Governments completely misunderstood the wants of that country and tried it by successive military Governments; it is only of late that the Republic established a civil Government under M. Albert Grevy, who lately met with attacks in the Chambers. Gen. Farre, when referring to the disturbances on the Algerian frontier, did not conceal the importance of same, and the action of the Italian Government was implied in his declarations. The French Government was so much alarmed as to concentrate at Toulon 15,000 trained troops and give orders to all the ironclads to be in readiness. Europe naturally witnessed these evolutions with curiosity.

England withdrew her Consul, who had openly manifested his hostility to France; Germany openly espoused the French policy, whilst Italy acted most ambiguously in not withdrawing her Consul, Sr.

Maccio, who is well-known for his intrigues in Tunis against every French. Events seemed to corroborate the concealed action of Italy, especially as a certain Arab paper, published in Italy, was diligently circulated amongst the Arab tribes. But it now appears that the Minister of the Bey, his former cook, and who rose to his present high post through his culinary talents in disabing the hind legs of frogs, is only aiming at destroying French influence in Tunis; and to accelerate this purpose he uses Mr Maccio. Meantime, the Italian Government winks and lets the situation grow hot, as events at home are acquiring much more importance than expected. Italy only acts, it would appear, to keep this Tunis business before the people, always prudent enough not to involve an international squabble, which would end as miserably as the last one, with France.

The late telegrams from Europe, therefore, are most reassuring, and happily the French policy will not involve that prosperous and flourishing nation in any war with a European power. Italy would do better to cater for French sympathies, as her Government intends launching a loan, which will be mainly subscribed in France; in such a case there appears to be no foundation whatever for the rumors which circulated of late.

STATE OF IRELAND.

Dublin, April 8.

The Council of the Land League have taken the precaution of removing their books and papers from their offices in anticipation of a raid being made upon them by the Government. They have also made arrangements for relieving the families evicted this week in the neighbourhood of Ballina.

The Gazette contains a proclamation of twelve baronies in the county of Cork as disturbed districts. The steamship Austrian, of the Allan Line, arrived yesterday in Galway Bay and took on board 123 young men and women of the farming class as emigrants for the United States. Preparations for emigration are being made all through the country, and a steamer will call once a fortnight for passengers.

A remarkable report of the value of land on the Keemare estate, although the tenants refuse to pay their rents, is afforded in the fact that the interest in the farm of Patrick Donoghue, of Clash, near Kilkenny, who was sold recently by the sheriff as a defaulting tenant, was sold to the neighbouring tenant for 400l. The Poor Law valuation is 26l.; the rent up to 1875 was 25l.; it was then raised to 37l., and a lease for 31 years given.

Mr. Edmund Farrell, who has been for a long time identified with the land movement in Cork, first, in connexion with the Farmers' Club, and subsequently with the Land League, has been expelled from the Queensdown Land League because he had paid his rent, which was in excess of Griffith's valuation. Mr. Farrell tendered his resignation, but it was not received. He threatened to appeal to the Dublin Land League.

On Thursday an execution sale of cattle seized for rent took place in Youghal. At the time of the seizure, a great deal of opposition was offered, and in the village of Ballinacola the police had to charge the mob twice. On the arrival of the cattle in Youghal the local band came out and a determined resistance was again shown. For some time the bailiffs were unable to impound the cattle in consequence of the violent conduct of the people, and this object was only secured through the interference of some members of the Land League, who induced the obstructive to desist. In view of the scene that took place then it was expected that there would be a considerable display of opposition at the sale, and a large force of constabulary was drafted into town. Two representatives of the Property Defence Association attended. Precautions had been taken to protect them, and they were escorted to the place of sale by a large force of constabulary. They were vigorously groused at by a large crowd which gathered into the mart. The farmers of the surrounding district came in, and members of the different Land Leagues in the counties of Cork and Waterford were present to watch the proceedings. At first bids of 1s. were offered, and the jeers of the audience, but when the representatives of the Emergency Committee began to offer the aspect was changed, and the bidding ran quickly up until it reached the amount of the decree. The competition then ceased, and the cattle—22 head, including some yearlings—were bought in by the friends of the tenant for 311l. The interference of the representatives of the Property Defence Association resulted in a complete vindication of the law.

There are bad accounts from Azil, where hordes of banditti are roaming over the outside camps, 'baling' ostriches, stealing horses, attacking houses and doing a little murder now and then. A pleasant state of things, truly.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Yesterday was dullish: rain threat, ening to come down, wool coming down, gold coming down, Nat Banks the next thing to it, and no news to speak of except the threat of France to pitch into the Sublime Porte if he does not mind what he is about. The general belief, however, is, that he will mind it. It is the first time France has raised her voice: Europe since her defeat by Germany.

We received yesterday, and will publish to-morrow, a very interesting article on the sugar industry, in answer to a recent article on Millions by our talented correspondent W. P.

Our attention was called yesterday to the possibility of the 'chusma' captured by General Villegas's Expedition being sent to this city and distributed amongst families as servants. The public have a most vivid and unpleasant recollection of this being done with the Indians captured on the Rio Negro Expedition, and the result was an epidemic of small-pox amongst the Indians and all who came in contact with them. It is to be hoped that the experiment will not be repeated, as it would certainly lead to the same consequences; as the Capital of the Republic is not in a state to be trifled with till its Drainage Works are finished.

Baron Holleben, German Minister, has returned from his visit to Montevideo.

We are to have another great violinist here this winter—Camilo Ursa, a veritable Great Bear amongst musical constellations. He is said to have evoked 'entusiasmo frenetico' at the Melbourne Exhibition. He is only 25 years of age and was taught, amongst others, by the celebrated Wieniawski, who is often irreverently styled Wine-and-Whisky, as no British tongue can properly get round his jaw-breaking name.

An amnesty for political offenders has been declared in Paraguay, and the Government gives them free passages home in the river steamers. The National Guards of the Capital will be called out for a spell of drill next week. It will be a pleasant spell than the last one they had.

There was a long Cabinet Council held at the Red House on Monday, it is believed about the Ohlian Question, and a project of law to have the Municipality of B. Aires elected direct by the citizens, the same as in England.

A large sum has already been subscribed in Montevideo, to erect a monument to the memory of the late Bishop Vera.

The people of Ajo and Tordillo have petitioned, scores of times, their Municipality to have removed several dams which, in times of rain, cause ruinous inundations in the district. The Minister of Government has now ordered the dams to be removed within 15 days, or he will make the law his own, and make the Town Councils responsible.

The public are promised a book that will possess a certain interest. It is by ex-Governor Tejedor, giving an account of his stewardship while in office. This book will prove a welcome morsel for several of our colleagues who have very much fallen off in their news of late, and require something to revive their political spirits.

It is now said that the new ironclad Admiral Brown will be here about the end of next month.

We are sorry to read in our native colleagues that there are two or three duels on the tapis, at least there were three, but the War Minister put a stop to one of them, as Lord Palmerston once did, by sending for one of the principals, and putting him in the navy, or army, and offering to be his second, or something tantamount to forbidding the duel, the result being an amicable arrangement. Dr. Victoria is to be congratulated on his successful mediation, and we would rather see stringent laws against duelling, as one of the worst forms of murder, and have them rigorously enforced.

The names of a family who arrived in town yesterday morning from Rosario, on reaching their lodgings, took one of the children, a little boy, out to walk, to have a look at the sign of nurse or child, so the father went to the Police and the telegraph was set going. Ten minutes after the Commissary of the 15th Section wired that he had nurse and child safe. The telegraph has reported this of the greatest value in cases like this, and child stealing, as the thief has every Commissaria in the city set on his track in an instant if the police are informed in good time.

The 'chacareros' have abandoned the Mercado del Centro, as utterly ruinous. Three times a day, morning, noon, and afternoon, they are regularly fined as the clock strikes. It is very hard to get any vegetables in this market now.

The winners of the 50,000 pata prize in the Caridad Lottery last week were a fireman in the Peña mall, a peon in ditto, and the grocer over the way. The trio hold the whole ticket and have pocketed over £3,000 each. We suppose they will now retire from business and start in the gentleman-at-large line.

The Press reports the escape of three thieves from the Cabildo some nights since, while all the policemen on guard were in the arms of Morpheus.

'Article Sept' at the Variedades was well played to a very poor house on Monday night. This piece is quite as laughable as 'Divorcios.'

The death of Mrs. Leiza de Acha is announced. She died rather suddenly on Monday night. The deceased lady occupied a foremost position in society, and was distinguished for her many charitable works. The funeral takes place to-day.

Members of the Buenos Aires Athletic Society are notified that all entries for the Sports on the 26th inst. close this evening.

National Bank Shares..... 924

This is a very small day in gold, the total sales only amounting to 195,420; prices cash opened at 28.70, and closed at 28.65, and for the month at 28.65. The bill rang out for the first time on 28, and the figure was at last broken by a sale of 10,000, which was at 27.90; the lot sold was small, only 2,000 pata, but sufficient to show the market current. We say for June at 28.40. There was nothing from Paris to-day about the General Bond, but it is thought probable that it will be at least broken by a sale of 10,000, which is in certain circles at 28.40 in connection with this loan of the most flattering and important nature. We say for June at 28.40. The National Bank Shares are still very severely beaten, they closed down to 924, and then jumped back to 924. The business of the day was not large, and sales for end of June at 944. In exchange some large transactions in patacos, and 30,000 for end of June at 944.
